118) What is the entrepreneurial "secret" for creating value in the marketplace?

Answer: Creativity and innovation should be used in combination to allow the entrepreneur to solve real-world problems and to exploit opportunities and the profits that come with them. Creativity should always be directed and complement the business plan. Creativity is the ability to develop new ideas and to discover new ways of looking at problems and to exploit opportunities that people face every day. Innovation is the ability to apply creative solutions to those problems and opportunities to enhance and enrich people's lives.

119) Explain the differences between the left and right sides of the brain.

Answer: The left brain is guided by linear, vertical thinking, whereas the right brain relies on kaleidoscopic, lateral thinking. The left brain handles language, logic, and symbols, whereas the right brain takes care of the body's emotional, intuitive, and spatial functions. The left brain processes information in a step-by-step fashion, whereas the right brain processes it intuitively—all at once, relying heavily on images. Left-brained vertical thinking is narrowly focused and systematic, whereas right-brained lateral thinking is somewhat unconventional, unsystematic, and unstructured.

Answer: The five barriers are a subset of the following list:

1. Search for the one "right" answer
2. Focus on "being logical"
3. Blindly follow the rules
4. Constantly be practical
5. View play as frivolous
6. Become overly specialized
7. Avoid ambiguity
8. Fear looking foolish
9. Fear mistakes and failure
10. Believe that "I'm not creative"

Answer: The five ways individual creativity can be enhanced should come from the following list:

- Allow yourself to be creative.
- Forget the rules.
- Travel and observe.
- Observe products of other companies, especially in completely different markets.
- Recognize the creative power of mistakes and accidents.
- Notice what is missing.
- Keep a journal handy to record your thoughts and ideas.
- Listen to other people.
- Listen to customers.
- Watch a movie.
- Talk to a child.
- Do something ordinary in an unusual way.
- Keep a toy box in your office.
- Take note of your "pain points."
- Do not throw away seemingly "bad" ideas.
- Read books on stimulating creativity or take a class on creativity.
- Take some time off.
- Be persistent!

123) List and briefly explain the seven steps in the creative process and discuss the step that you consider to be the most critical.

Answer:

1. Preparation-Get your mind ready for creative thinking through formal education, OJT, work experience, etc. This helps to build creativity and innovation.
2. Investigation-Develop a solid understanding of the problem or decision.
3. Transformation-View the similarities and differences in the information collected.
4. Incubation-Take time to reflect on the information collected.
5. Illumination-A spontaneous breakthrough occurs, causing the "light bulb to go on." All of the previous stages come together to produce the "Eureka factor."
6. Verification-Validate the idea as accurate and useful. May include conducting experiments, running simulations, test marketing a product or service, etc.-to verify that the new idea will work and is practical.
7. Implementation-Transform the idea into reality.

124) Explain "brainstorming" and list at least five of the guidelines for a successful brainstorming session.

Answer: Brainstorming is a process in which a small group of people interact, with very little structure, with the goal of producing a large quantity of novel and imaginative ideas. The goal is to create an open, uninhibited atmosphere that allows members of the group to "freewheel" ideas. Five guidelines should come from the following list:

- Keep the group small-five to eight members.
- Make the group as diverse as possible.
- Encourage members to engage in some type of aerobic exercise first.
- Communicate that every member of the group is on equal ground - company rank and department affiliation are irrelevant.
- Give the group a well-defined problem for the group to address, but do not reveal it ahead of time.
- Provide relevant information and invite members before the session to provide three ideas.
- Limit the session to 40-60 minutes.
- Take a field trip.
- Appoint someone to be the recorder and write every idea on a flip chart.
- Use a seating pattern that encourages communication and interaction.
- Throw logic out the window.
- Encourage all ideas from the team, even wild and extreme ones.
- Establish a goal of quantity of ideas rather than quality.
- Forbid evaluation or criticism of any idea during the session.
- Encourage participants to use "idea hitchhiking" or to "piggyback"/build new ideas on those already suggested.
- Dare to imagine the unreasonable.

125) Why is it important for an entrepreneur to use techniques like mind-mapping, which uses both sides of the brain?

Answer: Mind-mapping, a graphical technique that encourages thinking on both sides of the brain, visually displays the various relationships among ideas, and improves the ability to view a problem from many sides. Since entrepreneurs themselves tend to be left- or right-brained thinkers, techniques like mind-mapping encourage them to look at problems and opportunities in a different way. Mind-mapping is also a useful tool that includes: sketching a picture symbolizing the problem, connecting each idea to the central picture or words with a line, and allowing your mind to rest for a few minutes before beginning to integrate the ideas.

Answer: An entrepreneur should follow these six steps to enhance his/her success in receiving a patent:

1. Establish the invention's novelty.
2. Document the device.
3. Search existing patents.
4. Study search results.
5. Submit the patent application.
6. Prosecute the patent application.

Mini Case 2-1: Protecting Your Intellectual Property

Devo, Anthony, and Spencer were childhood friends who had always talked about starting a business together after college graduation. Devo had the financial background and startup capital to contribute and Spencer and Anthony had the technical knowledge they believed would give them the competitive advantage needed to become an industry leader.

During their early college years, Anthony and Spencer developed a new and innovative way to manufacture computer components. When they shared their idea with Devo, he was able to draw up a detailed business plan to present to potential investors when the three were ready to launch their venture. They had been very careful not to disclose anything about their innovative idea to other colleagues or any of their friends and were anxious to get started.

After selecting the company name "Millennium Computers" the three friends come to you for advice on intellectual property rights.

127) To protect their innovative process for manufacturing computer components from unauthorized use, which type of intellectual property should the threesome apply for? Identify the office to which they should apply and outline the steps involved in the process.

Answer: They should apply for a patent through the Patents and Trademark Office (PTO). To receive a patent, the inventor must follow these steps:

1. Establish the invention's novelty.
2. Document the device or process.
3. Search existing patents.
4. Study search results.
5. Submit the patent application.
6. Prosecute the patent application.

128) Should they consider protecting or registering their company name? Which intellectual property would cover this concern? Could they use the name without registering it?

Answer: Entrepreneurs do not have to register trademarks to establish their rights to use those marks; however, registering a mark with the (PTO) does give entrepreneurs greater power in protecting their marks.

129) Since the primary weapon to protect intellectual property is the legal system, what would you advise the friends if they have to protect intellectual property sometime in the future by threatening a lawsuit?

Answer: The major problem with relying on the legal system to enforce ownership rights is the cost of infringement lawsuits, which can quickly exceed the budget of most small firms. Before bringing a lawsuit, the entrepreneurs must consider the following issues:

- Can the opponent afford to pay them if they win?
- Will they expect to get enough from the suit to cover the costs of hiring an attorney and preparing a case?
- Can they afford the loss of time, money, and privacy from the ensuing lawsuit?
